

C.V. Fair Entries Top Previous Records

Exhibits Estimated To Exceed 2,000
Mark--60% More Than Last Year;
School Garden Display Excellent

FENCED GROUNDS MARKED IMPROVEMENT; ROAD GRADED TO STOCK BARN; OVERFLOW EXHIBITS IN BIG MARQUEE; COMPETITION MUCH KEENER; CARNIVAL ATTRACTIONS

Favored by ideal weather and increased interest in all parts of the A.S.M. Area, the fourth annual Centennial Fraser Valley Fair opened on Jubilee Grounds, Abbotsford, on Tuesday afternoon, and is in full swing today, eclipsing its predecessors in aggregate entries, keenness of competition and entertainment features.

Over 2000 Entries

At 9 p.m. Tuesday, Secretary L. J. Kettle estimated entries were up 60 per cent compared with 1937, and that individual exhibits exceeded 2000. An outstanding feature of this year's fair, in the opinion of most observers, is the display resulting from the School Garden Contest. Approximately 500 entries in this contest made a big showing.

Improved Grounds

Temporary fencing of the park with snowdrift fence represented a marked improvement and facilitated handling of the crowds as well as the collection of some compensation for the immense labor of staging the fair. Another improvement was the grading, by Matsqui's machine, of a road to the stock barns. Cutting of brush on the north margin and other work by men provided by Matsqui also improved park conditions. Fair board officials expressed appreciation of a grant of $175 from Sumas municipality and $150 from Abbotsford village.

Many Divisions Gain

Entries in the horse division show the biggest gain over 1937 and are augmented by 10 entries from the Colt Club. There are about 75 entries in Cattle, Sheep are good, Swine average but Poultry show is smaller.

The dry season is reflected in average divisions of Field Crops, Vegetables and Flowers. Dairy Produce is a big class and Fruits are also good. Exhibitors said competition was much keener in all divisions.

Feature Prize Winners

The handsome Rennie cup and $10 of school books for the most points in the School Garden Contest, ages 13 or over, was won by P. Dawson. Carl Vore won second prize and Leslie Bird placed third. In class under 13 years, Harvey Arnold won cup and first prize; Gloria Smith, second prize and S. Purver third place.

In a field of four fine entries, Mrs. H. C. Green took first for best decorated basket of fruit grown by exhibitor and Mrs. Trusler second. Highest aggregate in Needlework was won by Mrs. Newton of Mission.

Entries in Cooking ran as high as 12 and 14 in a class.

Members of Huntingdon Institute won first prize for most points in women's divisions. Upper Sumas Institute ranked second, Pine Grove Institute third and Poplar fourth.

Attractions

Mechanical rides of the carnival company prove the major entertainment feature with the Clipper bus exhibited by Pacific Stages drawing admiring throngs. A working model of a deepsea tug displayed by New Westminster Board of Trade, together with a number of large photographs of the Royal City and the Fraser Valley is a source of interest.

New Eastern Mail Service Saves Delay

Effective today, Postmaster E. A. Barrett announces, mail for Eastern points will be forwarded on the afternoon B.C.E.R. train to Chilliwack and will be despatched from there to Agassiz, where it will be placed on the C.P.R. mail train. This will avoid a delay of 24 hours which has been caused through shipping the mail to the Coast for despatch Eastward.

To take advantage of this new service mail for Eastern points must be in the Abbotsford post office by 3.30. Similar service will be accorded post offices on the B.C.E.R. between Abbotsford and Chilliwack.

Mr. T. W. Hall, Education Director, Granted Leave of Absence; Due to Health

Mr. Thos. W. Hall, director of education for the Abbotsford, Sumas and Matsqui Educational Area, confirmed on Tuesday a report that he had been granted leave of absence by the Department of Education for an indefinite period. He was not aware if his relief or successor had as yet been chosen by the department, but gave assurance that he would not leave until the new incumbent, when appointed, was familiar with the responsibilities of the position.

It is understood that Mr. Hall, due to increasing ill health, which the many friends he has made here attribute to overwork and lack of vacation time, tendered his resignation to the department. Leave of absence was granted, but the resignation refused. Mr. Hall has been with the department 27 years.

Mr. Hall's zealous attention to the requirements of every school and district, and to the problem of introducing a modern system of education in this area, has made him a familiar figure to almost every one of the 1820 school children and to many hundreds of their parents in Matsqui, Sumas and Abbotsford. Many expressions of regret are heard and the hope is freely expressed that rest will speed recovery and his absence will be of short duration.

In response to a telegram from The News asking if a relief or successor had been appointed in Mr. Hall's place, Hon. G. M. Weir, provincial minister of education, replied: "Matter under consideration; no statement at present."

Death Of H. Sutherland Shocks Friends

Sudden death on Thursday of Hugh Campbell Sutherland came as a shock to his many friends. A resident of Clayburn for years Mr. Sutherland and his family moved to Abbotsford in April and only lately purchased the Fooks place on McKenzie road. Blacksmith at the Clayburn Co. for the past nine years, Mr. Sutherland worked on the Friday previous to his death, but did not feel well Saturday. He was rushed to M.S.A. General hospital the next day and operated on for a ruptured appendix. He appeared to be making a good recovery but died suddenly at 8.30 p.m. on Thursday.

Deceased was born in Scotland 58 years ago and is survived by his wife, three sons: James at Britannia and Ian and George at home, and one daughter Kathleen (Mrs. W. B. Iverson), Vancouver.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 1 p.m. from the Henderson Funeral Home to Hazelwood cemetery and were largely attended. Rev. Angus Campbell officiated and pallbearers were: T. Cairns, W. Simpson, J. Clark, G. Fox; Fred Holtsbaum and Ted Heppell.

SEEK SHORT ROUTE

A new and shorter road from Yarrow district to Chilliwack is a possibility, as a result of a petition presented to the municipal council at Chilliwack. The petitioners request the council to canvass the possibility of having the British Columbia Electric railway bridge over the Vedder river at Woodruff planked.

Happenings of Interest In and Around Abbotsford

FLASH—"Jenny" Morris will stop briefly at the Abbotsford Legion hall at 12 noon Thursday. (See story on Page 6.)

Mrs. Albin Johnson of Los Angeles was a visitor to Abbotsford over the week-end, when she visited many old friends. Mrs. Johnson will be remembered as the former Alice Shortreed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Charlton of New Westminster were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Benedict.

Birthday Club met at the home of Mrs. J. Frith on Wednesday and at the home of Mrs. Mathews Monday. Refreshments were enjoyed and each hostess received a gift from the club.

The C.F.V. Fall Fair was visited by Mr. Harry J. Barber, M.P., and Mr. Fred Leary of Chilliwack on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Barber spoke highly of the increased size of the fair and was particularly interested in the large school section.

M. M. Shore, C.P.R. Agent, Operated On At Hospital

M. M. Shore, C.P.R. agent at Abbotsford, and secretary of Abbotsford & District Board of Trade, was operated on at M.S.A. General hospital on Monday morning when his appendix was removed. Latest reports indicated he came through with flying colors and is making a good recovery.

Gordon Dryer of Vancouver is relief agent at the depot.

Small Ad Effects Trade Within 24 Hours

"Want Ad" No. 73, appearing in last week's issue of the A. S. & M. News, offering to sell or trade a radio, brought results within 24 hours. Mrs. E. Marion of Abbotsford informed The News when paying 35c for the ad which she had 'phoned in. Mrs. Marion hadn't time to call at The News office before the ad brought results. If you have something you do not need, sell or trade it through a News "Want Ad."

Driver's License Is Suspended In Sumas For Year

Arrested in Vancouver on a warrant issued by Provincial Constable Bleazard of Sumas district, Francis Valentine, colored, of Mission, pleaded guilty on Saturday before Magistrate J. W. Winson to taking a car without the owner's consent. On the premise that the penalty would be more effective than a fine or jail sentence, Magistrate Winson assessed the court costs, suspended sentence and suspended Valentine's driver's license for one year. Car taken was that of E. Butchart, sales manager, Chilliwack.

Valentine had secured the license only the week before and then as a result of appearing before Magistrate Winson on a charge of failing to possess one. On that occasion he got off with costs and a $5 fine which he paid. Clem Valentine, his brother, had also appeared in Sumas police court the previous week on a charge of keeping liquor for sale. He pleaded guilty and was assessed costs and granted suspended sentence.

Commercial Course at P.S. High School

Introduction of a Commercial Course as well as a Senior Matric course in Philip Sheffield high school, Abbotsford is announced by Mr. T. W. Hall retiring director of education for the M.S.A. Area. Some 30 students have enrolled for the course which substitutes shorthand and typewriting instruction for two of the regular high school subjects. Miss F. E. Robertson secretary at the Educational Office, is giving instruction in the two special subjects.

First White Boy Born in Sumas, Dies

Sudden death of Lou Chadsey, 70, first white boy born in the early settlement of Sumas, while working on a survey party near Kilgard on Friday, removed one of the district's few remaining links with the days of sternwheelers and large farms.

Mr. Chadsey was born in August, 1868, on his parent's 600-acre farm near Miller's landing, centre of the district's trade and commerce at the time. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Chadsey, who came from the East around Cape Horn.

A successful farmer, Mr. Chadsey moved to Chilliwack in 1911 and married Miss Mary Kipp 28 years ago. He conducted a livery and farm implement business there for many years.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, a son and one brother.

YOUTH WHO STOLE $20 FROM GARAGE GIVEN JAIL TERM

Charged under the Criminal Code, the youth who perpetrated a daylight robbery in Abbotsford, escaping with $20 from the safe of Abbotsford Motors on August 25, was sentenced to six months in jail when he appeared before Magistrate George F. Pratt in Abbotsford police court. He entered a plea of guilty. The charge will run concurrently with a similar one imposed in Burnaby police court where he was also charged with theft. The youth eluded pursuit and an all-day search of woods near Abbotsford, but was later apprehended by Provincial Police at Chilliwack.

BICYCLES RECOVERED

Two Indian juveniles arrested by Prov. Constable J. Bleazard of Sumas district for theft of bicycles from the Canadian Hop gardens, appeared before P. H. Wilson, judge of the juvenile court for the Chilliwack electoral district, pleaded guilty and were granted suspended sentence.

Car Tears Railing From High Viaduct

Three young women from Surrey and Vancouver experienced a thrilling if not miraculous escape from death when their car tore out 18 feet of railing on the Trans-Canada highway viaduct just east of Abbotsford and hung suspended 100 feet above the C.P.R. tracks that pass beneath the bridge. The driver was Miss Carol M. Hanna of Vancouver and her passengers were Miss Nancy Bailey and Miss Grace Kellaway of Cloverdale. No one was injured but damage estimated at $200 was caused to the car. Provincial Police state a charge under the criminal code may be laid against the driver.

The car travelling west, apparently caught a wheel on the north-side of the guard rail at the eastern approach to the viaduct, travelled along the guard for 100 feet or more, tore a tire and careened across the bridge. It faced about and tore out nearly 20 feet of railing on the south side, narrowly missing a somersault with its occupants to the railway.

VACATIONISTS IN SPILL ON HIGHWAY AT COLE ROAD

Friday noon, just prior to his departure with members of his family on a trip to California, Milton Nelles of Sumas was precipitated into an unfortunate accident when the radius rod on his car broke, resulting in a collision on the Trans-Canada highway near Cole road intersection. By coincidence the other car conveyed homeward-bound vacationists, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Murray of Barrie, B.C. The Murray car went into the ditch and while no one was injured, Mrs. Murray suffered severe shock and was conveyed to Chilliwack by a passing motorist.

The accident was investigated by Corpl. Flander and Cons. Bleazard of the Provincial Police.

COW IS VICTIM OF HIGHWAY CRASH; BOVINE UNCLAIMED

Damages amounting to $62.50 were caused to a car driven by John Wilson of Chilliwack when he struck and killed a cow on the Trans-Canada highway near Whatcom road intersection. Owner of the cow, Const. Bleazard of Sumas states, has not yet come forward to claim the carcass. The accident occurred on Thursday night.

ACCIDENT ON GRAVEL HIGHWAY INJURES WOMAN

Apparently skidding in the gravel while passing another car and unable to regain the road due to the weight of a trailer a car driven by A. St. C. Milliken, Abbotsford went into the ditch on the Abbotsford-Matsqui highway near Matsqui at about 8.30 p.m. Monday. Windshield and side window were broken and while the driver escaped injury, a passenger, Miss Barbara Gould of Vancouver sustained cuts about the face, arm and hand, and on Tuesday morning was X-rayed at the M.S.A. General Hospital for a possible fracture of one arm.

LACKED LICENSE

James H. Davies, charged under the Highways Act with transporting Indians to the Sumas hop gardens without possessing the necessary highway license, was fined and paid $10 and costs in Sumas district police court.

Why, O Why Is Roadwork Not Done Earlier?

Everyone is no doubt grateful for the small parcels of "hard" surfacing being done in the province this year even if they are not convinced this is an economical way to pave highways in a territory as large as British Columbia. One thing that does puzzle, annoy would be a more fitting term, not only the taxpayers but the visiting motorists is the consistently late start on even these small bits of work and the consistent disruption of traffic at its tourist peak.

Recently an international regatta was held at Harrison Hot Springs. Overlooking the toll that was placed on the public highway at that centre presumably to augment the $10,000 provided by public-spirited citizens to stage the event, where was the co-operation of the public works department? Greatly as the international highway between the Huntingdon Customs port and the Trans-Canada highway needs improving, was it necessary to close this road just when there was an influx of traffic to the regatta? Costly speed boat entries in the regatta were forced to detour over several blocks of cow-trail by-passes. We might ask also, where was the co-operation at Ottawa. This port closed as usual at midnight when, if not during all the season, it at least should have been open to accommodate the public of both nations.

On the Trans-Canada highway between Chilliwack and Hope, where, goodness knows there is a washboard that has long needed surfacing, the work was done during the final holiday rush of the season. To make matters worse, the public works department added insult to injury by smashing a bridge with its own equipment just at this time. To be sure, as at all times, they placed courteous guides to handle the traffic and point out the foolishness of it all.

Further inland at Merritt in the Nicola Valley, the department crowned its Labor Day weekend folly by choosing to lay a ghastly smear of oil-tar on the roads that had been dusty throughout the season but had just been dampened by Nature's mercy. What a mess that tar made of some fine cars that had been invited to "spend Labor Day in British Columbia."

For months in the early spring organizations pleaded for improved routing of the northside Fraser Valley highway into New Westminster; at the final peak of the season this work is being done in the Esson-dale section.

Two important highway links, the International Link (previously mentioned) between Huntingdon and the Trans-Canada highway and the cross-valley artery between Abbotsford and Mission, have been in deplorable condition for years. Deferred until the middle of the 1938 season, one mile of three is surfaced on the former and two miles of four on the latter. Hundreds of visiting motorists and the heavily-taxed B.C. drivers appreciate the gesture but continue to drive through the fog-like dust of the short unsurfaced gaps in these heavily-travelled routes.

At any rate we will appreciate all the more the government's policy of keeping the highways clear of snow in the winter—we'll have a chance to enjoy our new surfacing then.

Central Site For Fair Proves To Be A Popular Move

Courage of a spirited group of Langley citizens in uprooting the Langley Fall Fair from its pioneer but now out of the way site at Milner and transplanting it to a convenient location at the trading centre for the district, Langley Prairie, is rewarded in the marked success attending the rejuvenated fair held last week. The 46th in a long line of fairs brought back the

Several Books In F.V. Library On Irrigation

In view of the increased interest among agriculturists of the A.S.M. Area in irrigation, the A. S. & M. News is indebted to Mr. C. K. Morison, librarian, for the following list of books dealing with this subject available through the Fraser Valley Union Library:

Land Drainage—W. L. Powers and T. A. H. Teeter. A textbook for agricultural schools, and a reference for the farm and other owners of land that might be improved by scientific drainage.

Land Drainage and Reclamation.—Q. C. Ayres and D. Scoates. Deals only with drainage and clearing of land.

Use of Water in Irrigation—S. Fortier.

Water Resources: Present and Future—F. H. Newell. Deals more particularly with the conservation of water resources.

Useful information for the farmer on the subject of land drainage is also to be found in such general books as "The Farm" by Eugene Davenport; and "Soils: How to Handle and Improve Them" by S. W. Fletcher.

CANNING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Full information of every phase of canning is given in the publication "Canning Fruits and Vegetables" No. 534, Dominion Department of Agriculture, now available on request to the Publicity and Extension Division, Ottawa. It treats all methods of cooking, jar rubbers, jars, sterilizing, processing, time tables for canning the various fruits and vegetables and other necessary facts.

glory of its earlier predecessors, with an attendance placed at 2,000 and with 1500 exhibits filling hall and stock buildings, 1938 Langley fair exceeded even the expectations of those supporters who had the courage of their conviction that a central site was all that was required to repopularize the annual "show window" of the district.

CLARENCE NELSON Radio News Feature

World's Largest Radio Marks Jubilee

Illustration courtesy Montreal Herald

To mark the Diamond Jubilee of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto this year there are many unique features among which is the World's largest Radio—with an animated stage built in, on which a Marionette performance is produced eight times each day, and two special performances for children on Children's Day.

This gargantuan Radio Set, 16 feet high and 6 feet wide, is an exact copy of the new Northern Electric eighteen-tube Radio Receiver and is placed in the Company's Booth in the Electrical Building. In this Booth also is the "Talking Mirror," an ingenious device which speaks to those who use this conveniently placed mirror and invites them to view the new Microphonic Radios on display beside it.

Call at Clarence Nelson's Radio & Electrical Store in the News Block, Abbotsford and see the marvellous new Northern Electric Radios—you'll marvel at their performance. No obligation

RAPID EXPANSION OF IRRIGATION IN OREGON RECOUNTED

"Irrigation by sprinkling has been practiced in western Oregon for more than twenty years, but the rapid expansion of this method has taken place in the last four years.
This has been closely associated with development of portable pipe for laterals and revolving sprinklers to cover areas 89 feet in diameter."

The above paragraph introduces an illustrated article on Sprinkler Irrigation by F. E. Price of the Agricultural Experimental Station at Corvallis, Oregon, whom several A-S-M. agriculturists heard address the recent irrigation conference held at the U.B.C. The article appears in the C.R.E.A. News Letter published in Chicago. A C.R.E.A. Bulletin, Vol. VII, No. 2, also deals extensively with sprinkler irrigation and is profusely illustrated with pictures and diagrams. Copies have been loaned to the A.S. & M. News.

Welcome To Jenny!

WHO WAS "MOTHER" TO SERVICE MEN ON LONDON LEAVE
A tribute by Abbotsford Branch No. 15, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

Jenny Morris, beloved overseas mother to hundreds of soldiers from Canada and other dominions on leave from France, will be passing through Abbotsford on Thursday forenoon, September 15. It was expected she would have lunch here, but time will not permit with the schedule arranged for her on the round-the-Valley trip by way of Harrison and back to Vancouver.

A direct descendant of Rob Roy MacGregor, Jenny Morris comes of a sturdy fighting stock that laid much emphasis on loyalty to a cause dear to its heart. Came the war, and a couple of "Princess Pats" on leave in London from France, after vainly trying to find accommodation in several hotels, discovered 34 Bedford Place, where the gracious Jenny and her mother turned their home into a home away from home for soldiers on leave.

Guests included Ralph MacPherson of New Westminster, now district superintendent of the B.C. Telephone Co., who was one of the first to stay there. He and his pals spread the good news about this haven and the unique hospitality of its charming hostesses. Like the growth of a great fellowship, "where Andrew telth Sim," so one told another about this delightful place.

Number 34 Bedford place was in every sense an ideal place for a rest. Every foot-slogger in the "Poor Bloody Infantry" must have cynically smiled at the prospect of leaving the trenches for a spell that Army orders euphemistically termed "a rest." What with parades and brass polishing in the daytime and fatigues at night when one carried "A" frames and iron riveting, bags of mills or stokes trench and mortar bombs, spools of barbed wire, pans of machine gun ammunition through tortuous trenches, over

Phyllis Whitchole Weds C. F. McBride in Vancouver

In the chapel of St. Andrew's-Wesley Church, Vancouver, a quiet ceremony of interest in University circles was performed on the evening of September 3 by the Rev. John E. Bell of Victoria, of Phyllis only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. R. Whitchole of Vancouver, and formerly residents of Abbotsford, who became the bride of Mr. Clarke Fyfe McBride, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McBride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a teal blue suit of imported woolen, the box jacket of which was collared with silver fox. Her blouse was of finely shirred teal blue satin and her hat black felt bound in velvet. Gardenias and lily-of-the valley were in her corsage.

Miss Janet Davidson was the bride's only attendant, and wore a dress of black mal crepe.

Mr. Charles Tait supported the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McBride, who are graduates of University of B.C., left for Mt. Baker en route to the Okanagan, where they will spend the month of September. Upon their return they will spend a few days in Vancouver before taking up residence at Cadboro Bay, Victoria, B.C.

slippery duck boards, the term "rest" was a misnomer. It should have been a "change".

Leave to England, Scotland or Paris—ah! that was different. That was something to dream about in the dugouts between spells of sentry-go, "two hours on (if relieved in time) and four hours off", perhaps. That was a vision of bliss that tormented one in one's waking hours when one had to stand in a muddy trench and take it, "it" being all the cussedness associated with trench warfare. Leave to Blighty meant much to an Old Countryman. It meant going home to his family and his dear ones, to sit around a cheery fire in the winter, to hear the birds in the trees, to see the primroses blooming in the spring, to walk along a shady lane between green hedges in the summer or to sit by the seashore and hear the breakers roar in the autumn. To some sensitive young fellow reaching London alone at night in the winter, perhaps for the first time, direct from the front line at "Wipers" or "Armentiers" even the great Metropolis with its millions of people and its great big beating heart, its theatres and hotels, and its innumerable places of historic interest, could be as lonely at first as an outpost amid the ruins of the Old Chateau at Hooze where Fritz at one time held the ground floor and the Canadians the floor above.

A Real Home

Number 34 Bedford Place offered a change from crowded hotels and music halls and the pubs, and the meretricious pleasures of other places to fellows who had looked at death nightly in the salient, or advanced in the mud at Passchendaele or in the gas-drenched Bourlon Wood. Here, with a rare understanding, Jenny Morris and her mother welcomed these fellows and made them feel at home. The latch-key was always hanging outside 34 Bedford place and the lamp was still burning in the window (even if the blinds were down owing to air raid precautions) for any soldier on leave. With the mud of Ypres on his hob-nailed boots, or the chalk of the Somme clinging to his uniform, and as lousy as the proverbial pet coon, a lad would arrive at 34 Bedford place. But no matter how dirty or lousy or fed up to the teeth he would be royally welcomed by Jenny and her mother. After a bath and a change, he would feel a lot better. The cheery atmosphere of the place was apparent. Jenny with her quiet charm soon made her soldier guests feel comfortable and at ease. Here indeed was a real home.

There was a fine camaraderie at 34 Bedford Place. Buck privates and officers could meet there with freedom and perfect ease. As at "Toc H," the unique sanctuary in Popelinge established by that beloved padre, "Tubby" Clayton the motto in Jenny's home was "Abandon all rank ye who enter here." Here the fellows gathered around the piano to sing "Rick-A-Dam-Doo" and other songs while the log burned cheerfully in the fireplace and the kettle boiled merrily. There was a quiet nook with books and magazines and newspapers from Canada. A miniature post office was set up and parcels and letters were sent there to be ficked up by the men when they arrived on leave from France. Jenny supervised all this. To her also fell the sad lot of tenderly packing up the souvenirs and personal effects of those who "went west", and dispatching these with great care to the next of kin at home. To these sorrowing relatives followed letters of sympathy and comfort.

If the troops wanted to stay up most of the night Jenny stayed up too. No matter how late came a straggler, who perhaps had drunk not wisely but too well, Jenny received him in her knowing way, and no questions were asked. If clothes needed mending, Jenny mended them. If a little motherly or sisterly advice was asked about intimate affairs of the heart—and some of those lads who would attack a concrete pill box or a nest of machine guns single-handed were very ill at ease and much distraught when suddenly confronted by some feminine society when on leave in London Town—Jenny could be depended upon to give wise council and to straighten out the tangled skeins of a love affair. Was there an early train to see the boys off when the fast-flying en days' leave was over, Jenny was up to supervise the breakfast and to extend a warm-hearted "au revoir and the best of luck" at Victoria Station—and one needed lots of such encouragement on a cold, foggy London morning with the prospect of another six or nine months in the trenches, if one didn't get a Blighty or an R.I.P. in the meanwhile.

Jenny Remembers

So, through the long dreary days of the War, Jenny and her mother ministered to tired bodies and minds away from the trenches for a short spell, or wrote cheery letters to them when they returned to France to rejoin their units and to go up the line "with the best of luck and a pot of Tinkler's Jam" She has kept up a yearly correspondence with all who stayed at 34 Bedford Place and has written with her own hand as many as 1700 letters a year to her "boys" and their relatives now scattered all over the globe. She is deeply interested in the welfare of whole families now. She never forgets to send a cable every year when the Patricia Clubs celebrate the Regiment's baptism of fire at St. Etienne on February 27th-28th, 1915. Last year, she confessed she wrote only 1550 letters! Perhaps, as she had seen a number of her old friends on the Vimy pilgrimage, she didn't need to write so many.
